

Methodology

When the person in emergency will operate the respective button in the remote (their will be a unique I'd to every remote to represent person)

Through this remote their will be two point RF communication to tower (tower will be having an indication of red light on its top and every tower will have a unique I'd to represent tower in its location) LORA technology will be very much helpful in this.

